

KIMBERLY AVENUE BRIDGE.

The Draw Bridge Question a Question of the Future.

Colonel Roberts, U. S. A., in his official report on the above subject states as his opinion that the West river is undoubtedly part of the navigable waters of the United States, and that the Kimberly avenue bridge is an unreasonable obstruction, but he thinks the proposition to raise the bridge, for the present, is the better one to adopt, retaining the right of putting in a draw at such time as commerce demands. This time, says Colonel Roberts, will probably not be before New Haven and West Haven are incorporated into one city, and then the expense will be borne by a larger number of people and more easily.

STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS.

A Well Known County Commissioner.

Thomaston, Feb. 25.—County Commissioner Joseph K. Judson, aged fifty-five, of Litchfield county, of Judson Bros. stock farmers, was stricken with paralysis just at noon yesterday at his home in Thomaston.

Mr. Judson was apparently in excellent health yesterday morning and was sitting quietly chatting with a friend, when he was stricken with paralysis and rendered unconscious. Three physicians, Dr. Goodwin, Dr. Ferguson and Dr. Pease, were summoned and did all they could to restore Mr. Judson to consciousness. They were unable to do so, however, and the stricken man is still in a comatose state. He is now in a critical condition and it is not believed that he will recover.

THE LATE SAMUEL L. SMITH.

A Former Prominent New Haven Dry Goods Merchant—Was a Leading West Haven Citizen for Years—His Death at His New Home in Redlands.

Samuel L. Smith, formerly of West Haven, who died February 17 at his home in Redlands, Cal., was a man well remembered both in New Haven and West Haven by our prominent older business men and many others. Mr. Smith was years ago a leading New Haven dry goods merchant. His place of business was on Chapel street where F. L. Averill's furniture store now is. He retired from the dry goods business about 1888 after having enjoyed a very prosperous and lucrative trade. The firm was Smith, Leete & Kimberly. His home was in West Haven, and he resided there until about eight years ago, when for the improvement of his health he removed to Redlands, Cal., where he had since resided. During his life in West Haven he was a very useful citizen there and served the borough in several responsible public positions. He was one of the originators and original stockholders of the old West Haven horse railroad company and held his stock during all the years of the company's early struggle for prosperity and finally sold it at par. He owned considerable real estate in West Haven, but parted with most of his West Haven property when he removed to Redlands. He was a sterling citizen, upright and honored, and he leaves an unblemished name. He died quite suddenly of paralysis of the brain. He leaves a wife and one daughter. The daughter is the wife of Nathaniel Ray, civil engineer, son of E. A. Ray of the Consolidated railroad. They are now residents of Coulterville, Cal., where Mr. Ray is mining expert and civil engineer for a company of Montana capitalists with whom he was connected in Montana for several years. Mr. Smith was a member of one of the churches at Redlands and will be much missed there. His funeral was largely attended by the most respected and representative people of Redlands.

The reception and banquet of Pinta council, K. of C., in the armory last evening was a very pleasant affair, and was largely attended. Meriden was largely represented, and the many guests were entertained and refreshed by a well laid out program of attraction. The banquet was immense. Much credit is due the able committee of arrangements for the excellent manner it performed its duties. The armory presented a fine appearance early in the evening with two long tables on the sides and three across the end, all well filled with eatables of all kinds, including in the makeup sixteen turkeys, a couple of dozen chickens, eight hams, and fruits of all kinds. The banquet was the largest and most complete of any ever held in the town.

Rev. Daniel Merriman, a Congregational minister from Worcester, Mass., was in the town clerk's office last evening searching over the mummy record for information of his ancestry. In 1643 Captain Nathaniel Merriman, from whom the Merriman family dates its ancestry, settled in New Haven one of the first settlers, and later moved to Wallingford, and was one of the largest land owners in this colony, and records of his lands are on the old books, and many of his descendants are in South-ington and other places in this state.

YALE MUSICIANS IN FAIR HAVEN.

A Fair Haven audience was excellently entertained at Osborn hall last evening. The program comprised all the songs and selections which won for the Yale glee and band clubs such encomiums throughout their western tour. The glee club was made up of twenty-three men and the band club of fifteen men.

The program comprised sixteen numbers, and as the performers responded to nearly every number those who attended were given a great deal of music for a small sum of money. In part second Mr. Green in response to an encore given one of his best songs gave two recitations that brought down the house. Considerable disappointment was caused by the non-appearance of some of the members, but there were so many good things on the program and the performers so kindly responded to encores that no fault could be found with the musical feast.
